

UC SANTA BARBARA

Fall Events Toward an Inclusive Campus for graduate students and postdocs

Friday, October 11, 2019

Breakfast Discussion of the 2018 National Academies' Report on Sexual Harassment of Women – National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine

9:00a.m. – 10:30a.m.

Flying A Studio: Click here to register

Panelist from the NASEM will discuss the key findings of the report, charge and goals of the Action Collaborative Committee plus an open discussion and engagement on the topic.

Monday, October 21, 2019

“Can I Be of Any Help” – Theater Delta Presentation

2:00p.m. – 3:30p.m.

Multicultural Center: Click here to register

An interactive theater performance addressing conflicts rooted in racism, homophobia, classism, and cultural appropriation as they may appear in the classroom. This performance particularly emphasizes the role of the graduate student instructor in setting the classrooms climate and responding to social conflict in situ.

Wednesday, October 30, 2019

Diversity in Graduate Education through Admissions Practices – Presentation by Professors Julie Posselt and Casey Miller

1:00p.m. – 3:00p.m.

Flying A Studio: Click here to register

This presentation introduces current research about equity and diversity in graduate education especially in STEM, as well as practical strategies for improving admissions and recruitment processes. Attendees will learn how common admissions mindsets and practices inhibit access for underrepresented groups, and will leave with concrete strategies to improve diversity and equity through the admissions process.

UC SANTA BARBARA
Graduate Division